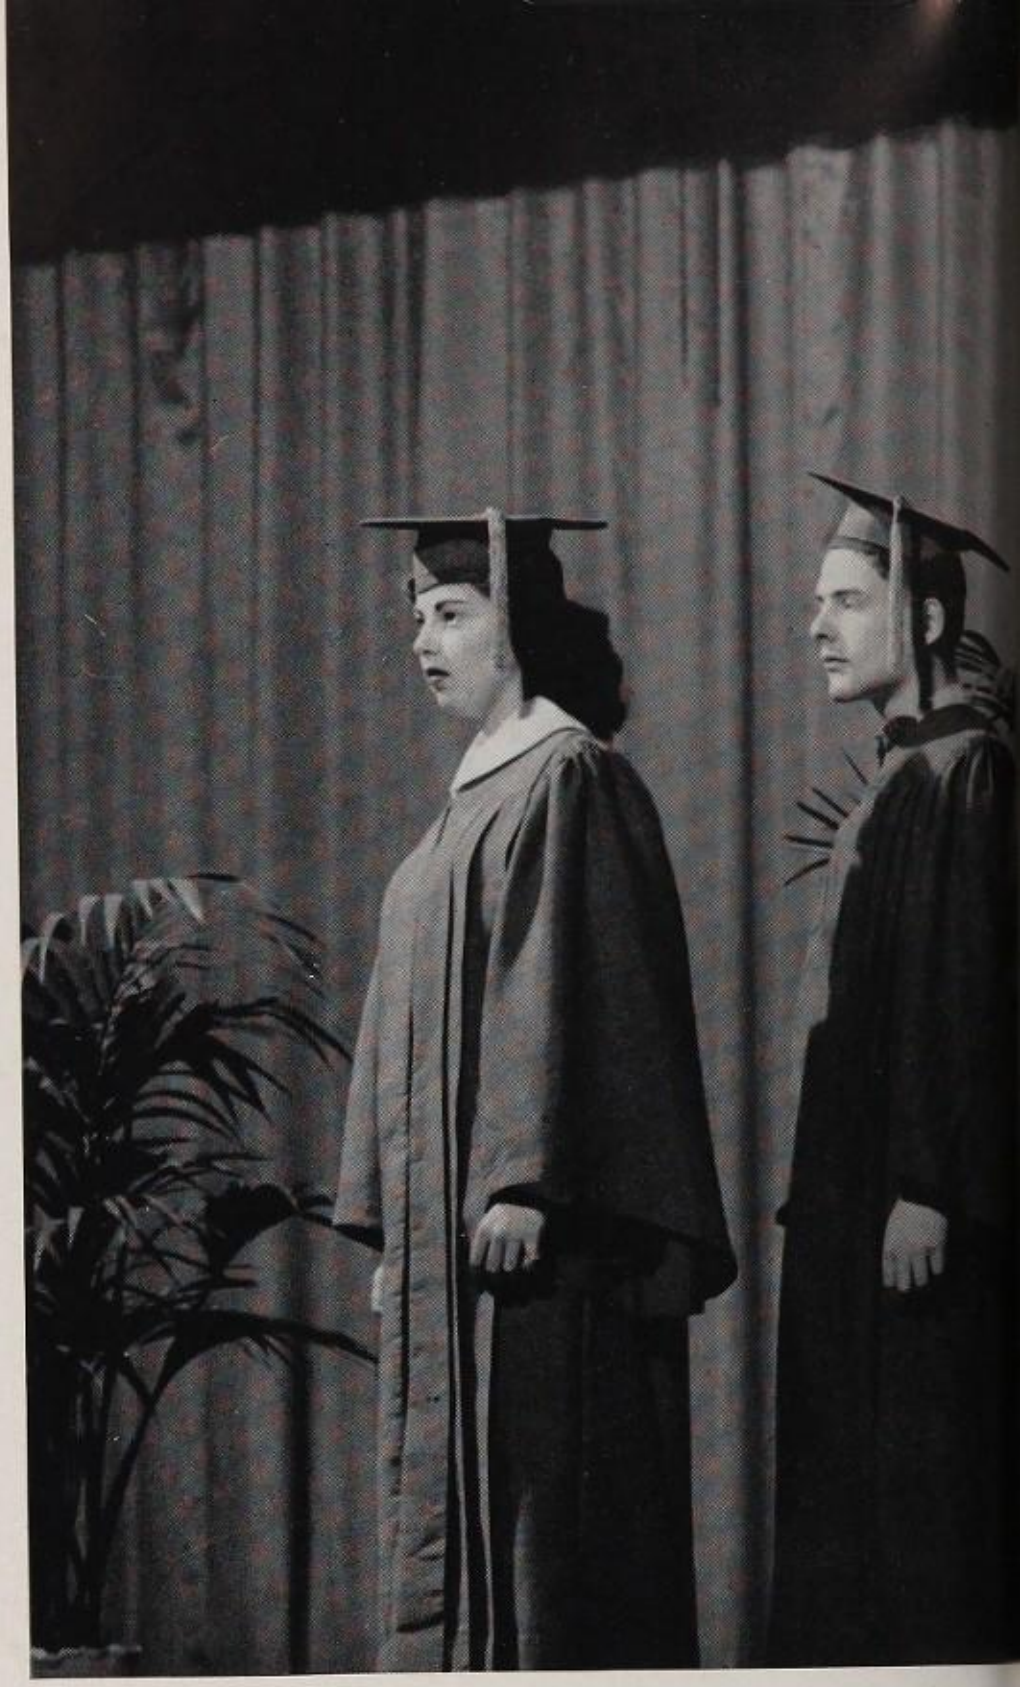
ROOSEVELT HIGH SCHOOL
CHICAGO + ILLINOIS



From

Registration to Graduation

Four years ago, we entered the Circle of Roosevelt—young, undeveloped, and timid. Our preconception of high school education was that of all work and no play. But it wasn't so! As we progressed from freshman to seniors and Roosevelt became our very life, we began to realize the true meaning of an education such as high school provides. We discovered that education is not preparation for life; it is life. The recognition of this truth has played its part in making us what we are.

Today, as graduates, we look back with satisfaction to the changes we have undergone while we have been within the Circle of Roosevelt. Now we are older in experience, more mature physically and mentally, more sophisticated in our social contacts. Our conception of high school education is that of a relative balance of work and play. We more fully realize the significance of the truth that education, from registration to graduation, is life.

Something to Remember

Prom night, that gala event before the final crossing of the stage, the night when you know that the circle of high school education is almost finished and the circle of the future is waiting for you! The night when the smell of flowers, the glow of familiar faces, the laughter of happy couples give a magical touch to the occasion! Dreams and plans of the four years are interwoven to make this night of nights. There is no room for sorrow on this night of dreams; joy prevails, for the memory of prom night, our prom night, will remain with us long after we enter the larger circle of experience awaiting us.

The "R" symbolizes hard work, individual achievement, service to the school, teamwork. To one who has earned his "R" there is no more thrilling occasion than the day he knows an "R" is his. To one who wears the "R" it means he has done more than just go to school; he has helped to make our school go. Just a letter of the alphabet to some but to winners of the "R" in service, activity, or athletics, it means they could and they did for Roosevelt.

The World In Their Hands

The future is inevitably a part of the present and the past. A worthwhile future is dependent upon a successful present. The students of this class will undoubtedly be capable of contributing to the present directly in proportion to their ability to understand and interpret the past in relation to contemporary living.

Homemakers of Tomorrow

In the food classes the girls have an opportunity to learn about both the practical and the gracious phases of living.

Among the practical activities of the Home Economics Department is training in home nursing.

Every student has found his way to the clinic at one time or another during his sojourn at Roosevelt.

Our Guiding Spirit

We who are graduating from Roosevelt High School salute the man who to us is synonymous with Roosevelt—Mr. John L. O'Brien, Jr.

Your genial smile, your morning watch, your inspiring "one minute" talks at assemblies, your warm friendship, your sympathetic understanding, have endeared you in the hearts of all who have left Roosevelt, who are going to leave, and who have just arrived.

To the man of the hour, every hour of our school day, appreciative seniors say, "Hail and Farewell!"

Activities

"All work and no play makes 'a Rooseveltian' a dull boy."

Fully aware of this truth, our school has provided for extra-curricular opportunities in one arc of its Circle of Education. Participation in activities serves to smooth the rougher ground of academic work as they add spice to the routine of the classroom. In turn, the lessons of the classroom may find practical application in one's chosen activity. Then again, participation in activities helps to develop better adjusted personalities.

By joining organizations the students have an opportunity to make contacts with others who have similar interests. There are the band, orchestra, and chorus for those musically inclined; drama, debate clubs, the Weekly and the Speakers' Bureau for those who crave expression; and the Student Council for those who desire to take part in solving the problems of our school.

Graduation brings reminiscences of happy times in our chosen activity. We have learned that work without play is dreary, and play without work is folly. The knowledge of this worthwhile truth should prove invaluable to us as we take our place in the activities of adult society.

THE GREATEST SHOW
ON EARTH

Music Is Immortal

Take 120 voices and stir well. Add one conductor and beat till fluffy. Pour over this mixture a combination of notes with a pinch of sharps and flats. Bake in room 204 until well done. This recipe will yield two delicious Girls' Choruses.

Under the able direction of Miss Helen P. Johnson, the choruses prepare interesting musical programs for the alumnae. Christmas caroling at division periods offers one of the most melodious presentations.

There are two groups of officers in the choruses, one for the seventh period and another for the second.

Officers of the second period chorus are Dolores Palm, president; Dorothy Faulkner, vice-president and social chairman; Sylvia Elfman, activity chairman; Mary MacFeely, secretary; Marilyn Crooks, treasurer; and Maureen MacFeely, Marianne Wigutow, and Karen Franks, music librarians. The chorus gets their musical pitch from Nancy Krumin, accompanist.

The very important job of sergeant-at-arms is performed by Genevieve Skotnicky, seventh period chorus, and Marguerite Nicodem, second period. They not only keep the room quiet and ventilated, but they also keep out any would be invaders of the opposite sex.

Row Two—E. Fahse, J. Barry, R. Palm, B. Glazer, A. Stein, R. Schockner, I. Fink, S. Zimmerman, J. Spilg.

Row One—R. Yashon, Pianist, M. Simon, W. Carlson, Miss Helen Johnson, P. Towler, G. Skotnicky, B. Wallace.

Aside from entertaining Roosevelt students at assemblies, the members of the Girls' Chorus also serve their school by representing it at choral competitions, festivals, and other musical events.

Operettas are their specialty. Their newest was the presentation of Otis T. Carrington's famous operetta, "The Nifty Shop," which provided forty minutes of excellent entertainment with a Swedish and French air.

Officers for the seventh period chorus are Marlene Simon, president, Nancy Carlson assisting her as vice-president and social chairman. The scribe is Dorothy Voss, and Patricia Towler is treasurer. Barbara Wallace, Dorothy Long, and Dorothy Coplon are librarians. Able accompanists are Rena Yashon and Lila Podolsky.

MIXED CHORUS

Standing—C. Swoiskin, E. Mendell, P. Molner, E. Kaplan, A. Schiller, R. Bernstein, A. Goldstein, J. Levin, R. Ricker, W. Berman, R. Olson, C. Silvers, B. Hummell, H. Mendelsohn, M. Lesser, D. Johnson, S. Fox, F. Stoesser, J. Levy, A. Barkow, L. Goldberg, P. Silverman, E. Geller, A. Goldstein.

Team Work In Melody

Any member of the Mixed Chorus can tell you that this group is an organization which trains the aspiring but uncultured musician in the ways of sight-singing, enunciation, harmony, and pitch. Only when these elements are thoroughly mastered is the chorus member considered for entrance into the Symphonic Choir.

The Mixed Chorus is under the able direction of John P. Hamilton, who guides them to mastery of the fundamentals of choral singing. Many students in the Mixed Chorus take the subject for the enjoyment they achieve when they give pleasure to others.

The Chorus is divided into two groups, meeting the third and seventh periods, respectively; but they blend their voices when they participate in a program or assembly.

Although the chorus does not itself participate in outside musical activities, it proves its worth when combined with the choir during the holiday season and at the graduation exercises.

Row One—E. Frischmann, H. Novak, D. Arond, J. Holdsheim, C. Mirotsnic, M. Keating, J. Breitowich, R. Owens, D. Weller, A. Goeringer.

Energetic, ambitious and willing—these are the three adjectives that best describe a Symphonic Choir member. To create and maintain a reputation such as this choir has is not an easy task. It requires the establishment of an unlimited repertoire that contains songs for every type of occasion. Performances on short notice, presentation of musicals, participation in festivals, top honors at contests, and inspirational interpretations of Christmas carols are but a few of the achievements a choir member soon regards as "routine matter."

The Choir is governed by two groups of officers; one, democratically elected by the members, handles the business and social affairs; the other, appointed by Mr. J. P. Hamilton, aids in carrying out musical chores. In addition to distributing music during class hours, the latter group holds extra rehearsals for the individual sections in their homes, drilling them for hours so that perfect tone, pitch, and memorization are achieved. Choir, however, is not all work. Organized dances are held each semester, a semi-formal in September, and an informal one in April. In addition, a Choir member finds great enjoyment in group participation.

For all its fine voices, the choir might still be mediocre if it did not so accurately reflect the spirit of its sponsor, Mr. John P. Hamilton.

Our Future Stokowskies

Under the direction of Mr. John P. Hamilton, the Roosevelt High School Symphonic Orchestra emits beautiful strains of inspiring music from the brilliant compositions performed at various concerts and shows.

The purpose of the Symphonic Orchestra, besides enabling Roosevelt students to develop their talents and to give them the experience of playing in an orchestra, is to sow the seeds of music appreciation though active participation.

The activities of this harmonious organization as well as the rehearsals of each section are planned and guided by Lawrence Petz, president; Charles Schmitt, vice-president; Muriel Julius, secretary; and Sidney Heyman, treasurer.

Members of the Symphonic Orchestra play in outside groups so that they can obtain additional knowledge concerning their work. Beautiful and sometimes weird sounds can be heard by anyone who is in the vicinity of room 209 when this group is practicing.

Many take private lessons after school because they realize that only by practice can they improve and be worthy of the fine organization of which the student body and the faculty of Roosevelt are so proud.

Eager Novices

It is in the Beginners' and Intermediate Orchestras that Roosevelt High School's future symphonic groups are molded. Mr. John P. Hamilton and student coaches teach eager novices to play the instruments of their choice and guide them to experiences that promote skill in ensemble playing.

The goal of each member of the Beginners' and Intermediate Orchestras is to become a part of the renowned Symphonic Orchestra. In order to achieve their goal, members must show interest, ambition, and the right attitude within the group toward all types of music in addition to mastering the basic techniques of their instruments.

Many Rough Riders would never have been able to uncover their underlying talents if it had not been for this valuable, yet free, musical training.

Private instruction by exceptional members of the Advanced Orchestera is offered to ambitious students in addition to the worthwhile class instruction.

Beginners' and Intermediate Orchestras provide cultural profit and enjoyment for their members as well as for their future audiences.

New Masters of the Old Masters

The strains of thrilling marches, inspiring school songs, and the beautiful works of master composers echo through the halls each day. Attempting to achieve perfection in the production of these varied types of music is the Concert Band.

Ably directed by Captain Rollins A. Seabury, the band plays at many school assemblies. A great number of its members perform with the R.O.T.C. band, also directed by Captain Seabury, at athletic contests. Each season, the band plays at music festivals, garnering many honors.

One goal that the Concert Band strives for is increasing readiness to perform after a few hours' notice. Such assignments require the undivided co-operation of some thirty juvenile musicians, so that harmony will result.

In order to achieve a seat in the band, one starts from the bottom. The few with outside training may begin their careers either in the Intermediate or Concert Band, depending upon their instrumental proficiency. Those who join without previous instruction find a wide choice of instruments. Usually the student is required to purchase his own instrument after reaching the Concert Band. After a semester of diligent application, a student generally attains promotion.

Another goal of the organization is familiarizing each member with the famous pieces of music. Such a background provides the parting Rooseveltian with unlimited opportunities for positions in college or professional bands.

Aspiring Musicians

Basic training in a musical way begins in room 206 at the opening of each semester. There, the Intermediate and Beginners' Bands hold their daily sessions in music-craft.

The future Concert Band members are trained in these band groups, which are both directed by Captain R. A. Seabury. The Beginners' Band takes the new music students and prepares them for the Intermediate Band. In this latter group, the main purpose is to groom the same instrumentalists for the Advanced or Concert Band. They are kept in the middle group until they have mastered the fundamentals of instrumental technique. These groups form the basis for all Concert Band work.

The aspiring musician, however, receives much more than mere training in the use of a musical instrument. He becomes familiar with the inspiring marches of Sousa and various college songs; he learns to appreciate, enjoy, and understand all types of music.

These fundamentals, thoroughly mastered when in Beginners' and Intermediate Bands, never leave students in later years and always add pleasure to their musical experiences.

Strains of Beethoven, Gershwin, and Victor Herbert often float through the halls during seventh period. When this occurs, all Roosevelt knows that the Music Appreciation Club is holding another of its inspiring and informative sessions. Music-loving students eagerly attend these meetings, since entertaining talks are presented with the classical and semi-classical records played.

Sponsored by Mr. John P. Hamilton, the group has an unusual governing system. Members of a student committee select the records, plan the programs, and present the talks. These informal lectures serve to bring to the students a better understanding of the featured composers, their lives, and their works.

Inter-Class Politicians

Serving as the backbone of all student activities, the Student Council controls the daily life of the students.

Sponsored by Mrs. Lynne S. Harford, the organization is composed of representatives from every division in the school together with their respective class presidents. The council is advised by an executive board consisting of a chairman chosen from the student body, the eight class presidents, the chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, the editor of the Weekly, and the chairman of the Honor Society.

Working through the council are the Scholarship and Service Award Commissions. The Scholarship Commission determines which students are in the Honor Society and the 33-Point Club, and distributes pins to them.

The Service Award Commission collects data on points given out for special service to the school. When a student has received enough points, he is awarded a shield or a letter.

Teen Age Legislators

The Student Council is another example of democracy in action.

Every student in Roosevelt is represented by an elected member of his division. The division representatives of each year meet under the chairmanship of the class president and attempt to formulate recreation programs for their groups. In addition, they handle certain matters such as money drives and civic affairs.

One branch of the system is the Executive Council which acts, in essence, as the medium between the faculty and the students. Composed of representatives from the major organizations of the school, the Executive Council strives to execute the plans of the faculty and fulfill their own aims.

The revised Student Council system, although comparatively new, has made commendable strides as a student legislative body.

Acting as middle-man for the school is the Public Relations Bureau, mouthpiece of the student body and of the administration. With speeches written and delivered by trained students, they appear at P.T.A. gatherings, at division meetings, at assemblies, on neighbor school programs, and participate in outside affairs. This work is supervised by the Bureau chairman and Mrs. Lynne S. Harford, the sponsor.

The executive board, which manages all activities of the Bureau, is composed of five students who are not only well-trained speakers, but who are also experienced in the work of the organization and well equipped for leadership.

The work of every high school is tuned to the frequency of scholastic achievement. All who enter the phases of preparatory education must continuously live up to or surpass certain standards of scholarship which are set up by the Board of Education. Those students who have excellent scholastic records become Honor Society members here at Roosevelt. Individuals who have perfect records in scholarship and tardiness become members of the 33-Point Club and are entitled to the special pin of this exclusive organization.

Perfect work is defined in relation to the 33-Point Club as no tardiness throughout the semester and a record of 4 S's as final grades. The 33-Point Club badge is proudly worn by those who have achieved this goal; it symbolizes the ultimate in scholastic achievement. Admired by fellow students and respected by teachers, this beautiful pin also serves as an incentive to higher scholarship. This badge and the knowledge of work well done is the reward of time and energy spent in acquiring these high grades.

Winners of the Golden Pin

The most important single thing in high school life is the acquisition of knowledge. Students who excel in this task, maintaining an 'E' average or better, become members of the Honor Society and are entitled to pins issued each year for scholarship.

A bronze pin is for the first year, a silver for the second, a gold for the third, a gold pin with a guard for the fourth. The Scholarship Commission checks course books each semester to determine which students have merited membership.

Aides to Administrative Aides

The attendance secretaries, under the direction of Mr. Donald I. Naden, undertake the difficult task of keeping the school's attendance records up to date. Their duties include recording all absences, checking on tardy students, checking and filing programs, calling to Mr. Naden's attention any pattern absences, and keeping stray stage and light boys company. Much credit is to be given this small group of girls who do such a valuable service for the school.

Advisers, being in charge of a number of divisions and a great many students, have a variety of responsibilities to meet and many tasks to accomplish. Therefore, their "hands, feet, and eyes" must be courteous, considerate, and have honor ratings in all subjects.

Some of the many important tasks performed by the secretaries are running errands, filing, and working with the teachers of various division groups. As a result of these services, the secretaries gain invaluable office experience and a sense of responsibility. Thus, both parties, the teacher and the secretary, are rewarded.

The secretaries constitute an essential part of our advisory system.

Keepers of the Records

Roosevelt is very proud to be one of the very few schools in the city which gives its students almost complete responsibility in dealing with the financial affairs of the school. The financial secretaries are chosen for their honesty, dependability, and financial proficiency, since they must keep books, balance receipts and bank deposits, and pay the bills of the various activities.

The Log, the Weekly, and many other school activities are all dependent on the financial secretaries.

A group of secretaries, under the leadership of Miss Louise Parodi, handle much of the office work. These capable girls are recommended by Miss Parodi because of their ability, courtesy, and high scholastic standing. Among their duties are taking care of the counter, filing records, and typing.

Recreation . . . Education

"Lights!" The switch by the door clicks, the camera starts. From the first scene to the final one, a competent Amateur Motion Picture League member is there to see that the film runs smoothly. Educational films and slides are shown to better the student's understanding of his work. Sponsored by Messrs. Donald I. Naden and Edward Mraz, the A.M.P.L. contributes an invaluable service to the school.

Under the direction of Miss Frances Silverman, the bookroom attendants take care of distributing and receiving all text books and stamping and counting new volumes. They take bookroom inventories and deliver supplies and daily bulletins.

These attendants do many of the essential but unrewarded tasks for the school. The fact that this school is a smoothly running organization is partly because of their efforts.

Extra! Read All About It!

Always striving for a better paper, the Weekly, under the sponsorship of Miss Lavinia M. Tinker, is the only Roosevelt organization which has been in continuous operation since the opening of the school. During that time, the paper has won several honor ratings in national competition.

As an experiment, the fall semester's staff was headed by 4B editors. Under them, reporters, headliners, and copyreaders work several nights a week until five to put out "a worthwhile paper for a worthwhile school."

Other members of the staff comprise such varied groups as the financial agents, distributers, and room agents, working under the direction of Mr. E. J. Leeney, typists trained and selected by the commercial department, and cartoonists and photographers, supervised by Miss Minnie Stroscher, special art teacher.

On the literary side of the staff, interviewers, columnists, sports writers and reporters work daily, sometimes until five, in order to meet the deadline.

Though their work is concluded, the intricate process of putting out a high school paper has barely begun. The copy must pass through numerous other hands, from typist to editor to copyreader, to printer, to proofreader, back to the press for the final printing. The completed Weekly is distributed by the agents of the division groups.

Books, books, and more books line the walls of Roosevelt's second floor source of knowledge, the library. Used by more students than almost any other room, it is recognized as the place wherein knowledge is contained by the bushel.

The librarian, Miss Anne C. Harmon, her assistant, Mrs. Julia T. Grashoff, and a staff of about seventy-five Rough Riders keep it in order and make it useful for the entire school. Roosevelt students of all grades volunteer their services to work on the library staff. The librarians are always ready to give assistance in selecting and finding books on any subject. Without the library, our school would be lacking an important educational agency.

Behind the Curtain

The curtain goes up, and the performance begins. The props and microphones are all in place, and the unusual stage lighting effects cast a spell over the audience. Backstage are the boys who make this possible.

Sponsored by Mr. D. Naden and led by Ken Wrede and Ralph Varde, the Stage and Light Crew is present at all assemblies, rehearsals, and programs staged by outside activities. These boys are a vital part of each production, whether it is for entertainment or for education. Although they are not looked upon in the same light as those on the stage, Roosevelt understands and appreciates their unsung efforts.

Early in 1945, the group instituted a new stage and light system. Additional equipment has been obtained since then, including the expensive spun-glass curtains which embellish the stage.

The Lure of the Lights

"Make Room For Rodney," "The Man in the Bowler Hat," "The Importance of Being Earnest," and more recently, "The Pampered Darling" are a few of the delightfully entertaining Drama Club productions that have been presented in recent years. Roosevelt students of all year groups eagerly attend the bi-annual plays. Few members of the audience realize how much time, effort, energy, and real talent go into each of these presentations. While working on a play, members of the club faithfully attend daily period rehearsals.

Skillfully directed by Mrs. Alice B. Suess, the Drama Club ever strives toward perfection and scores a direct hit in student entertainment every semester.

In the Drama Club, students with talent, integrity, and a zealous desire to better themselves in the dramatic field are taught the elements of stage procedure and a real understading of character portrayal.

Hats off to the fine work this group is doing now and each member will do in the future.

Sponsored by D. I. Naden, the Roosevelt Hi-Y again has won "Ye Olde Oaken Bucket," awarded each year to the outstanding Hi-Y club in Chicago. A well rounded program, which includes dances, skating parties, service projects such as collecting cigarettes and playing cards for hospitalized vets, steak fries, and a large variety of other activities, have earned them this rating.

By learning and living a good Christian life, esteemable characteristics such as cooperation and morality will be acquired. This is, in summary, the pivot on which the Hi-Y rests.

The Hi-Y works in affiliation with the many other such organizations in Chicago and the United States to work toward the goal of making the boys of today good, reliable citizens of tomorrow by instilling excellent principles.

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character" is the purpose of the clubs. Living up to this aim helps make better citizens of all the members of the Hi-Y.

Go-Getters of the Good

One of the things that helps to make high school life enjoyable and complete is being a member of an interesting club. The Roosevelt Tri-Hi-Y offers much in the way of education, spiritual guidance, physical development, and social activities to its members. Its high standards and fine reputation are recognized not only here at Roosevelt, but all over the city. Striving to uphold these ideals, Tri-Hi-Y members are ever alert to their purpose: To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character. Their program for the semester includes such activities as a pot luck supper, a carnival, filling Thanksgiving baskets, a mother and daughter tea, educational movies, Christmas caroling, and their semester dance.

Watching over and helping the girls is Miss Gladys Badger, who gives much of her time to sponsoring the club.

Y-Teens are the junior members of the Y.M.C.A., a world-wide organization of women and girls of many different races, nationalities, and creeds.

Open to any girl at Roosevelt, the organization and programs are planned by the girls themselves to suit their own needs and interests. Mrs. Lynne S. Harford is the sponsor, and adult advisers act as consultants.

The national purpose of the Y-Teens is to face life squarely in growing as a person and promoting friendship with people of all races and religions.

Club life for Y-Teens offers a variety of activities. Among the numerous service projects which the Roosevelt chapter has undertaken this semester is the World Fellowship Campaign. Other activities include annual potluck splash parties, initiation, movies, bowling, speaking programs, a supper hike, and a mother-daughter banquet.

Comrades All

Every other Sunday evening at the Max Strauss center, a branch of the Jewish People's Institute, is Jewish Youth League night. The Jewish youth of Roosevelt are all invited to attend these gatherings which feature, at various times, guest speakers, skits, debates, and afterwards, singing and dancing. The organization is sponsored and guided by Mrs. Lynne S. Harford.

While working to fulfill their motto, "Nothing Jewish Shall Be Alien To Me," the J.Y.L. promotes inter-faith relationships. Their well-planned programs attempt to make the brotherhood of man a reality. Of course, other purposes include warfare on juvenile delinquency and the planning of opportunities for its members.

The members are offered scholarships to the College of Jewish Studies and may enjoy the various social gatherings and song festivals which President Burton Katz and the other officers often plan outside of regular programs.

Arguers, Incorporated

The Debate Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Helen A. Hutton, takes its place among Roosevelt's top organizations.

Keenly interested in current affairs, the students compare viewpoints, and in doing so, learn to formulate their thoughts clearly and logically. Alert members are on their toes every minute to find incorrect statements and generalizations in the discussions. In addition, they learn debating procedure, a valuable asset anywhere.

The club receives and sends many invitations for interscholastic debates, and sometimes, discussions. A considerable number of the topics are current, although certain permanent problems are discussed occasionally. Following an outside debate, a judging body decides which school had delivered the superior argument. Roosevelt won the majority of decisions last year.

As an incentive for active participation, the club awards a fixed number of points for each debate delivery. Any member accumulating twenty-one points is entitled to a debate letter.

The method of attacking a new topic is simple and effective. First, the club discusses the subject in a question-answer-comment manner. During the next meeting, the question is formally debated, pro and con. Discussion and criticism follow the debate. By this time, all members of the club have digested the arguments and a final debate ensues.

First organized eight years ago, the Pan American League, sponsored by Miss Marguerite Ullrich, continues to promote the "Good Neighbor" policy. Contests, informative speeches, songs, and various other forms of entertainment pertaining to countries "South of the Border," fill the monthly meetings with variety.

The League is a chapter of a nation-wide organization whose purpose is to promote friendly relations and to increase knowledge about the customs of the Latin American nations.

At present, the membership is made up of students in Miss Ullrich's Spanish VI classes and interested students who are free second period. In this way, the Pan American League has been united with the Spanish Club of a few years ago.

Hi-Yo, Silver!

"The Lone Ranger hasn't anything on them. Why, it might be only the fourth time, and they'll all ride like veterans!" Yes, it's as easy as that when you belong to the Roosevelt Riding Club. Under the sponsorship of Mr. John P. Hamilton, the club certainly gives an excellent opportunity to any Rough Rider who is the least bit interested in horses and the art of riding.

Better horsemanship as well as safety and etiquette on dangerous (?) trails is taught.

The beginning group, which is open to both boys and girls, must pass an achievement test to get in the advanced group. This advanced group goes on rides every week and the whole club rides every other week.

The spring semester offers something new for the members. Their meetings will be held at the stables after school, every week. They meet every other week in school on Friday, in the fall semester.

For something really worth while, try horseback riding with the Roosevelt Riding Club.

Sneak Previewers

The Log staff of 1948 has planned this book to reflect the Circle of Education at Roosevelt—Its activities, its classes, its faculty and students—the life of the school itself.

The staff has been assisted by Miss Waters, Miss Tinker, and Miss Burns who have each managed a specific aspect of the production. Miss Waters has directed the editorial work and has been in general charge of the book. Miss Tinker and her advanced composition class have prepared, copyread, and proofread the individual and group write-ups. Miss Burns, with the help of the Log agents, financial secretaries, and business managers, has taken care of the financial side of the project.

The job of preparing the Log in spite of the ups and downs has been fun. The staff hopes you will enjoy this record of your participation in the Circle of Education at Roosevelt as much as we did working on it.

Athletics

Athletics constitutes one of the vital segments in the Circle of Education for it contributes to the physical development of the participant and to the personality development of both participant and spectator, and, in turn, it promotes school spirit.

During our four years at Roosevelt our teams have faced keen competition from some of the most powerful teams in Chicago. Many times we were outplayed, but seldom were we surpassed in sportsmanship. For whether slugging a ball on the diamond, tackling a man on the gridiron, or shooting a basket, Roosevelt's teams have offered their opponent keen competition in that most fundamental element of athletics; namely, true sportsmanship.

Attendance at athletic events provides the spectators with an opportunity to practice co-operation with their cheerleaders and their team, to recognize the abilities of our own and the visiting team, to be courteous to all.

Players and onlookers alike have found in athletic sports one of the best means to experience that thrill of loyalty to Roosevelt, that intangible something we call "school spirit."

As graduates we have completed our training in Roosevelt's athletic program, we feel better prepared physically and socially to enter the area of life because of our participation in this Circle of Education.

Saved Two - Three - Four !

A cry of "Help!" and a leaping flash of red to the rescue—the Life Guards are once more swiftly and efficiently aiding fellow students. These capable and well-trained girls are chosen by the entire girls' gym faculty and must pass a severe test before they are allowed to wear those special red suits, emblematic of girl life saving at Roosevelt. They put in many extra periods a week assisting the teachers and guarding the swimmers.

The girls must have a full knowledge of strokes and life saving so that they may be able to help train future Life Guards.

Brawn . . . Brass . . . Battle

Probably the most coveted award in Roosevelt is the letter 'R,' showing that the possessor has served his school long and well. The winners of major and minor R's in sports have formed the only exclusive club in Roosevelt, the "R" Club. Each year, these boys sponsor intramural events such as baseball, basketball and track. The admission charged goes into their treasury to help pay for their annual banquet.

During the last few years, the club has been under the able guidance of Coach E. E. Alton, who, along with the members, has worked to promote the spirit of good sportsmanship throughout Roosevelt High School.

New plans are being formed under which the "R" Club will supervise an increased number of activities. Experience in leadership obtained through their sports activities aids them in this work.

On to the Rose Bowl!

All of Roosevelt cheered, "Go, team, go!" The '47 team must have heard, for in spite of the standings, our boys really went places this year, outplaying and outfighting almost all of their opponents. There were plenty of thrills all season, but no one will forget the Lane game when the Rough Riders outplayed Lane and scored the first touchdown allowed by their superior eleven this season.

Football is a game of chance, a thrilling game providing plenty of excitement; but there is a darker side, as always, and the stretcher was used twice for Roosevelt. In the Waller game, fullback Earl Jacobson was removed with a broken leg. At practice, linesman George Bohnert received the same injury. Sam Weil, the substitute for the injured Jacobson, and quarterback Harry Shoub set the pace in scoring for the Rough Riders.

At the end of the season, the boys voted the Most Valuable Player Award to Jim Dionisotis, although linesmen Steve Mash, Gus Giannakaronis, John Pilles, and Sheldon Puzes were close behind.

Though winning only two games as against four losses, the boys showed spirit and determination; with them were the cheers of a great portion of the school, for Roosevelt has a good showing at each of the games.

Coach Francis Kopczak has reason to be proud of his team in his last season at Roosevelt.

Battle-Scarred Veterans

Roosevelt football fans, who have cheered the many brilliant plays and enjoyed the highly contested games, are often inclined to forget that these individual plays and the games are products of daily team workouts at River Park. These take a great deal of the time of every man on the team and demand a huge amount of pep and vigor. During these workouts, Ex-Coach Francis Kopczak skillfully and carefully showed all the footballers what was to be done and how to do it. The former Notre Dame All-American linesman taught the boys either by personal example or through his methods of patiently coaching the fundamentals of gridiron play; passing, carrying the ball, blocking, kicking, and, above all, team-play and sportsmanship.

In the fall, Coach Kopczak will no longer be with the team; but his place will be ably filled by our new coach, Samuel Edelcup.

Feeders of the Baskets

On the lighter side of the hardwood picture, the Juniors, despite a pair of disheartening setbacks, still look forward to a highly successful season.

Hit comparatively easily by half time losses, the Ponies are preparing to face several weakened top rivals in the heated North Section race. Of these, three will meet the locals on their own home courts.

The Ponies started with a bang, winning their first seven practice games. Came the season, however, their attack fizzled, and the boys fell 49-41 in their initial encounter.

Recovering quickly, the Rough Rider Quintet gave the fans something to cheer about with a 61-27 lambasting of Amundsen. Steinmetz fell next, 69-35.

The Junior powerhouse reached its highest peak on January 23, conquering Taft, 75-42, but finally slipped off its torrid pace, falling to a sharp shooting Von Steuben quintet, 68-55. Still, however, the Lights are conceded at least a shadow of a chance in the city title fray.

Two Points!

The Blue-Gold Heavies, though in the section cellar, have turned out to be one of the 'fightingest' squads on the North Side. Even though they seem bound nowhere this season, the diminutive Seniors do have high hopes. A veteran assemblage will round out next year's squad and, prior to half-time, should make the Rough Riders prominent title contenders.

In their five encounters to date, the Senior squad has piled up a grand total of 204 points against 272 for its opponents, thereby averaging on the glummer side of 40-54.

In the Rough Riders' present league record, however, figures do lie. The scrappy Heavy quintet has shown fine form despite going down five times in succession. In the initial encounter, Lane rolled smoothly over the locals, 55-37. Amundsen followed with a 48-39 win, Steinmetz triumphed 52-38, and Taft came through, 63-44. In their final game, previous to the half, the Heavies, though falling to an undefeated Von Steuben quintet on the Steuben home floor, won a tremendous moral victory, playing before a partisan crowd. The Steuben squad barely managed to squeeze past the locals, 54-46. Though hampered by a definite lack of height, the team does have great possibilities.

The Seniors have sprinkled lavish sportsmanship on every basketball court they have trod. Rough Riders can assuredly look forward to much better seasons, but the spirit and fight of this year's squad will be hard to duplicate.

Whiz—a flash of light, a streak of color—another soul races on to his first period class. Will he make it? Of course he will, he's a Roosevelt track man.

Distance running, relay racing, broad jumping, pole vaulting, and hurdling, as well as the useful sprinting mentioned above, figure in the varied program of this organization. Instructed and encouraged by Coach Julius Harris, team members are conditioned by their sport to develop sound muscles, split second timing, and vast endurance. The members of both the Junior and Senior teams will value this superb conditioning in the future as much as they value the keen thrill of participation in a dynamic sport today.

Although Roosevelt's tennis squad consists of only three veterans, Ronnie Miller, Jerry Cole, and Art Schiller, there are such fine prospects as Jerry Hershman, Shel Prizant, "Erky" Raban, and Mandel Weincord coming up for the 1948 season. Thus, it is hoped that the team will achieve the high ranking prominence that it has enjoyed for many years.

From the first day of April until the last match in June, the boys may be seen practicing diligently at Eugene Field Park. Their fine spirit and determination will accomplish much more than any number of tennis victories.

Baseball! What thoughts are stirred into life by the mere mention of this one word! Each year, Coach Julius Harris works hard screening the flood of candidates that try out for the Roosevelt nine.

Most of this year's team will be made up of new boys, but players from last year's squad will play an important part. Gus Giannakaronis, Jim Dionisotis, and Jack Harwell, back from last year, will have no trouble in making the '48 varsity. Both the boys and the fans in the school have high hopes for the coming campaign, and we would all like to see them in Wrigley Field again when June comes around.

High hopes? Perhaps . . . but with a large number of "R" men returning and the energetic rookies, Roosevelt once again may achieve high standing.

From Marx to the Olympics

Bang! The blast of a gun echoes about the spacious Roosevelt Natatorium, intermingling with the varied sounds of swimmers speeding down the long blue-green lanes. It's another swimming meet, long awaited.

Looking closely, one may discern Captain Bill Pauli standing with Senior tankmen Dave Sanes, Johnny Reff, Barry Leavitt, and Bill Friedman, near the diving board. Farther down, Captain Art Telscer is talking to a group of Junior swimmers consisting of Ralph Moeller, Bob Rosenthal, and Perry Friedman. These boys form the nucleus of the two tank squads, co-sponsored by Coaches Robert R. Marx and Julius Harris.

The mermen have two fast and hardy squads and should place high when the city championship meet comes to Roosevelt.

Future Kiefers

The Boys' Life Guards could have 'Semper Paratis' as their motto, for they are truly 'always ready.' In addition to being on hand in case of emergencies, they also teach students the fundamentals of swimming.

In that way, the students are trained as future life guards by the guards themselves. In order to become one of this select company, one must pass a rigorous Red Cross test. Those who come through report to Coach R. R. Marx, their sponsor.

The boys have maintained a fine record in taking care of all difficulties.

The applicant must have a working knowledge of lifesaving methods and be able to perform all popular strokes; also, he must have the ability to instruct the students to work co-operatively with the teacher and sometimes take over the duties of the instructor in any emergency which may arise.

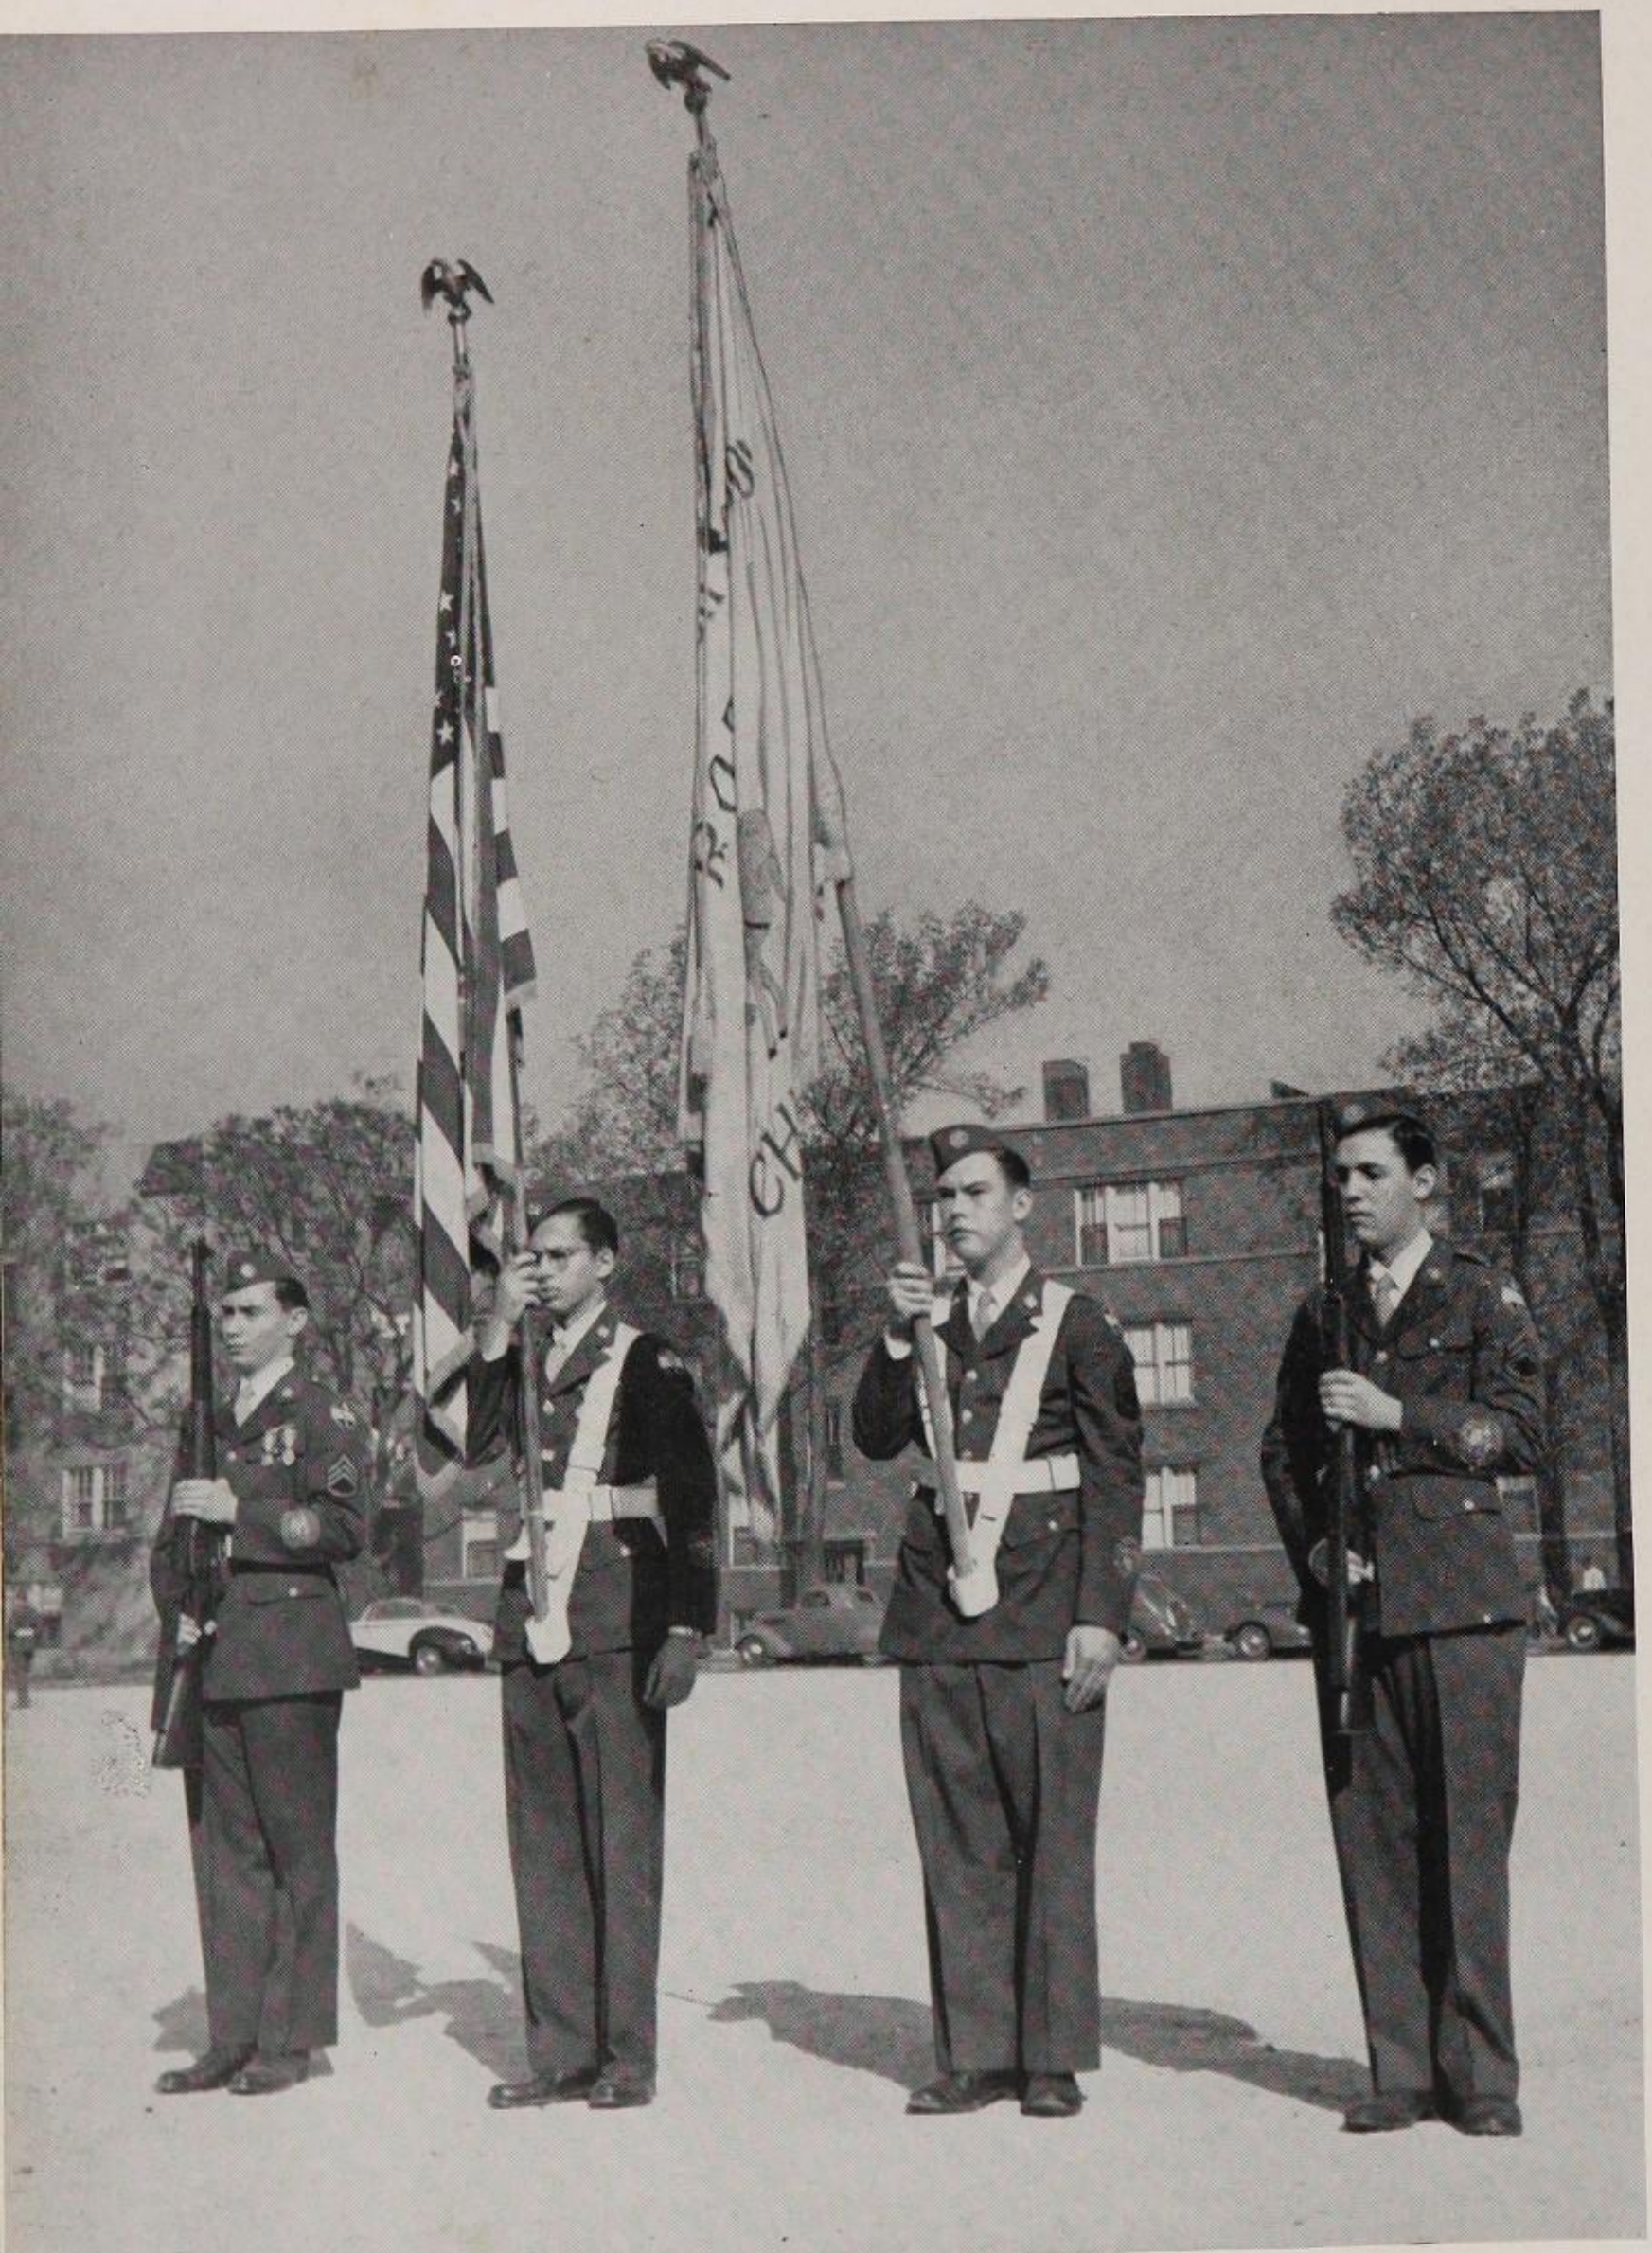
Stir 'Em Up! Keep 'Em Up!

Often, when spirits are drooping and morale is low, a rousing cheer will give the needed stimulation to spur our team to victory. Cheers are readily provided by a small group of active students who willingly and in a seemingly effortless manner provide the hors d'ouvre of cheers to the main course of sports events. Present at every basketball, football, and baseball game, the cheerleaders, sponsored by Miss Elisabeth Waters, and led by co-captains Arnold Chick and Herbert Shayman, energetically provide excitement and spirit. They have a well prepared repertoire of cheers, yells, and songs, and are always trying to write new ones.

Both the cheerleaders and the majorettes put in a good deal of extra time and energy in practicing and learning new cheers or new routines. They practice endlessly until they finally achieve the finesse and capability that is typical of Roosevelt. These two groups reflect the integrity and honor of the school. They come out to all the games, in all kinds of weather so that they can do their part for Roosevelt. Both groups help make each and every game a memorable one.

The Spirit of Forty-Eight



"Here comes the flag. Hail it!" The R.O.T.C. Color Guard is the proud bearer and guardian of the freest flying flag in all the world. We hail the proudest symbol of a free democracy. Long may it wave o'er the land of the free.

We can all be proud of our R.O.T.C. Military Band. For over sixteen years, it has been in existence under the capable direction of Captain Rollins A. Seabury. This organization has performed its duties in true military style and has a record to which it can point with pride. The Band has played at Federal inspections, R.O.T.C. assemblies, and has also speeded the team onto extra efforts at all the football games of the past twenty seasons. Quite a record!

The Band's special marching drills are supervised and directed by S/Sgt. Harold G. Dorsey. This semester, the R.O.T.C. Band is proudly led by Cadet L. Petz, the drum major.

Being in the R.O.T.C. Band does not limit the boys' chances of earning medals for themselves. As R.O.T.C. cadets, they are eligible to win medals that designate their efficient co-operation. Cadet S/Sgt. T. Obermayer received the Band Efficiency Medal this semester with Cadet J. Jurgens, who won the American Legion Band Efficiency Medal.

The school's motto, "You can if you will for Roosevelt," is the Band's motto, too, since it inspires their military performances.

Go, Rough Riders, Go!
Go on, you Rough Riders, go; go, Roosevelt, go.
Wave, wave your banners high, for Victory's our aim.
So go, you Rough Riders, go; go, Roosevelt, go.
We all are true to the Gold and Blue;
So go, Rough Riders, go!

* * * *

The Gold and Blue—shall wave forever high,
Our Alma Mater—shout it to the sky,
Rough Riders, Go!

* * * *

Go on, you Rough Riders, go; go, Roosevelt, go.
Wave, wave your banners high, for Victory's our aim.
So go, you Rough Riders, go; go, Roosevelt, go.
We all are true to the Gold and Blue;
So go, Rough Riders, go!

Graduates

Four years have gone by since first we entered the doors of Roosevelt and came under her sphere of influence that encircled our work, our play, our friendships—in fact encircled all the little things that make up that phase of living known as adolescence.

In memory we travel along the great circles of this sphere; our first "S," the election campaigns, the assemblies, the socials, our first high school crush, the day our favorite senior took notice of us.

And now strains of Pomp and Circumstance complete the circle in which we have been living during our stay at Roosevelt. We now realize that we are no longer adolescents, but men and women ready to participate in the ever-widening circle of daily living.

Farewell, Roosevelt!—May your sphere of influence never die.

Prologue to Seniority

It will be a happy day when we, the Class of January, 1949, graduate from Roosevelt. Yet, intermingled with our joy will be a feeling of sadness because we shall be leaving what has been our second home these last four years.

We shall miss the many good times we had on such occasions as the Junior Dance, and as participants in the extra-curricular activities. Even after we have gone, and perhaps been forgotten, we shall always have a happy memory of once having been a part of Roosevelt.

We shall enter the circle of the future with a feeling of security because of our education and social participation at Roosevelt. As we journey through the circle of the future, we shall re-evaluate the splendid opportunities we had within the smaller Circle of Education and re-appreciate the teachers with whom we were associated.

Only as we contribute our best to life in the circle of the future, will we, the Class of January, 1949, reflect credit on ourselves and on our Alma Mater.
